ANNUAL REPORT 1962-1963

The Division of Education

AUTUMN PROGRAM

ILLUSTRATED LECTURES. The free Monday lectures, "The Art of the Baroque Period," will be given by John Rupert Martin, Professor of Art and Archeology at Princeton University. Hobson Pittman will give a new "Looking at Art" series of subscription lectures. For full details of these and other lectures consult the current "Calendar of Events."

GALLERY TALKS. Thursdays and Saturdays at 2:00. Consult "Calendar of Events" for topics, lecturers and meeting points.

"MUSEUM LESSONS" FOR SCHOOL GROUPS. Scheduled by teachers to implement classroom study, they include: Introduction to Painting; Life in America 1750-1800; Pennsylvania Dutch; American Crafts and Craftsmen; The Orient; The Middle Ages; The Renaissance; Middle Ages and Renaissance; French Civilization and Sculpture.

These lessons are free to Philadelphia Schools; out-of-town schools pay a nominal fee. The schedule is crowded, and a minimum of two weeks' advance arrangement is necessary.

SUNDAY CONCERTS. A musical program will be presented Sunday afternoons, beginning September 22. Outstanding soloists and chamber music groups will perform in the Charles Patterson Van Pelt Auditorium. Members of the Museum may reserve seats in advance.

DICKENS FILM FESTIVAL. Five important films based on the novels of Charles Dickens, beginning Saturday, October 26.

ART CLASSES FOR YOUNG PEOPLE, 6-18. The classes are divided into appropriate age groups and meet for twenty-five Saturday mornings, beginning September 21. Reduced rates are given to children of members or to more than one in a family.

ART CLASSES FOR ADULTS. These meet once a week every weekday except Fridays. Painting and sculpture for beginners, amateurs and semi-professionals are offered to a limited enrollment, beginning the week of September 23. Please inquire. Reduced rates to members.

SLIDE AND FILM LIBRARIES. Some 60,000 kodachrome slides of paintings, sculpture, architecture, and the decorative arts are available for purchase or rental. Over a hundred films (16mm) on art subjects are available for rental.

THE MUSEUM SHOP, installed in its new quarters, has available postcards, slides, Christmas cards and Catalogue, note paper. In addition, the Shop adjacent offers reproductions of paintings (choice of frames), sculpture and jewelry. Museum members are entitled to a ten per cent discount on most items.

Report of the President

July 1, 1962—June 30, 1963

The reports of the Museum Staff, the Chairman of the Governors of the College and the chairmen of the several committees give in detail our activities of the past year.

I will limit myself to certain financial aspects and to the impending markedly important changes in personnel.

Our occupancy of Fairmount has been but since the year 1928. When one surveys the gallery on the second floor, from the Lansdowne Room to the Japanese Tea House; and on the first floor, from the Arensberg Collection to the Geesey Collection, the accomplishment within the short period of thirty-five years seems somewhat miraculous. Within that period not only have the collections been assembled, but the huge interior space has been converted from barren lofts to superb galleries.

We in a very large measure owe this result to a dedicated Staff. Needless to say, imagination and generous donors have played their essential parts, but it has been the Staff which gained the confidence of and inspired those donors.

MUSEUM PERSONNEL

In the future, those interested in the Museum may well look back upon the 1963-1964 year as a crucial period in the history of the Museum.

Four of the most valiant members of our Staff are planning retirement. Three of them were close to being present at the Museum's birth pangs thirty-five years ago, and the fourth has been with us for more than twenty-two years.

Our Director, Henri G. Marceau, has determined to retire as of June 30, 1964. Anyone who has been identified with the Museum for any number of years knows the infinite value of the service Henri has contributed, first through some twenty-six years as Fiske Kimball's right arm, and since 1955 as his successor. He has endeared himself to multitudes, from charwomen to mayors. He has played an important rôle in substantially every artistic activity in his adopted city of Philadelphia.

Carl Zigrosser, after twenty-two years of service, and having passed three score years and ten, has determined to retire at the end of this calendar year. He has built our Print and Drawing Collection from substantially nothing to one of the major collections in the nation. His learning in many fields is prodigious. By countless artists and writers his friendship is cherished. His identification with our Museum has lent great distinction to it.

Henry McIlhenny, our Curator of Decorative Arts has also expressed his intention to retire at the end of this calendar year. He has given almost thirty years of invaluable service to the Museum. His impeccable taste and wide ranging knowledge have marked him as one of the great museum men of his generation. His enduring monument is our Collection of Decorative Arts and its installation.

Julius Zieget, our Secretary and Treasurer since 1928, having well passed the normal time of retirement, has also expressed his intention of removing his harness at the end of this calendar year. His training as an engineer, a lawyer and a public official inculcated judgment and wisdom which have been invaluable to the Museum and to me and my predecessors.

sors. As the guardian of our treasury, Julius has indeed been a devoted watchdog.

All of these men have extraordinary resources of pleasure within themselves, and I am sure that they will have rewarding years before them. I hope, and in fact I know, that each of them will continue an active interest in the Museum and will be of immense value to us in that regard.

To say that to replace these devoted, faithful and invaluable members of our Staff will be a difficult task is to express it mildly. It is indeed a solemn thought that our wisdom, or our lack of wisdom, in the choice of replacements may well shape the destiny of our Museum for a generation. With the aid of those now retiring, I am confident that we will find men for replacements who will build upon the foundations those leaving us have so magnificently created.

FINANCES

I am happy to report that through the year the operating receipts of each of our three divisions—the Museum, the College and the Fleisher Memorial—slightly exceeded the disbursements. This was the result of generous contributions from friends, in amounts of approximately $53,000 to the Museum and approximately $30,000 to the College. This is a happy year-end result for any eleemosynary institution.

Mr. R. Wistar Harvey, a great friend of the Museum, died in 1939. He left his residuary estate to the Philadelphia Museum of Art, subject to the life interest of a life tenant who died in February, 1963. This will make available an annual income of approximately $40,000. It will presently be applied to Museum operations.

Mr. Harvey's major interest was in furniture and decorative arts, of which he left us his noteworthy collection. Our Board of Trustees has determined, in recognition of this, to name the post of Curator of Decorative Arts, "The R. Wistar Harvey Curator of Decorative Arts."

Our newly inaugurated Admissions Program has made available to us, since the initiation of the policy in November, 1962, approximately $30,000, in excess of admissions service costs, which included the acquisition of considerable equipment.

These two increases in income—from the Harvey bequest and the Admissions Program—have given us much needed elbow room. I cannot express to you how important this is.

Fiske Kimball, in moments of extreme irritation, used to complain to me, "You expect me to run this palace on a bungalow income." Our income from many aspects is still that of a bungalow allowance, but one might now say that it is a slightly larger bungalow than in years past.

CAPITAL FUND

Our Capital Fund payments total approximately $890,000, with a total of subscriptions (including these payments) of approximately $1,050,000. This is far short of the essential goal, and we are still shooting for that goal.

The Trustees have appropriated $300,000 from the Capital Fund as a Pension Fund, the income from which is to be applied solely to pensions. In light of our doing this, we received a contribution of $100,000 as principal for pensions; payable in four annual installments of $25,000 each. Thus our pension arrangements approach—but only approach—stability.

Since the publication of the Winter issue of the Bulletin, listing subscribers to the Museum's Capital Fund, we have in addition to anonymous subscriptions, including one for $100,000, received generous contributions from Theodore M. Freed, from Mrs. Morton McCutcheon, in memory of her husband, Dr. Morton McCutcheon, and from Mr. and Mrs. Robert M. Walker.

PURCHASE FUNDS

We are woefully weak in purchase funds. Our total income available for purchases comes to about $50,000 annually. This figure is but a fraction of that available to all of the important and to many of the less important museums in the country.

When one recognizes the wide range of our collections, covering substantially the entire field of Art from the beginning of the Christian Era, you may understand the demands made upon these available funds.

There are indeed few more lasting memorials than the endowment of a Purchase Fund. I would earnestly hope that with the passing of the years Philadelphians would bear this in mind.

THE COLLEGE

I felt it an honor to deliver to the graduating class, on Commencement Day, June 10th, its degrees and diplomas. There was then on display at the College an exhibition of the students' work. The calibre of the young men and women who received their degrees and diplomas, and the exhibition of their work, was most impressive. We are playing a major part in the educational process.

R. STURGIS INGERSOLL, President

The Great Stair Hall before and after renovation.

Report of the Director

I again have the honor of submitting the reports of the chief curators and heads of the several departments of the Museum and of reporting on the administrative activities of the Director's office.

CONSTRUCTION

The past year has been an unusual, and in many respects, a trying one for the public visiting the Museum and for the Staff. The reason, of course, was the construction work begun in November which necessitated the erection of a forest of tubular steel scaffolding in the Great Stair Hall. The Great Hall had been left in an unfinished state since the opening of the Museum in 1928. Through the cooperation of the Deputy Managing Director, the City Planning Commission, the Mayor, the City Council and the electorate, the Great Hall has now been handsomely completed and equipped with special lighting and a public address system which has functioned well despite the very considerable acoustic problems presented by the vastness of the Hall and its basic structural materials.

While the actual work of construction was confined to the Great Hall, it was necessary for safety and security reasons, as well as for protection of art objects against dust, to isolate more or less the building area from the balance of the Museum. This created a serious inconvenience for visitors who, at times, were asked to use service elevators to reach the north and south wings of the Museum. We appreciate the good nature with which this situation was met. Another regrettable result of the construction was the abandonment of special exhibitions during the fall and winter.

Considering the serious problems cited above it was deemed inadvisable to stage loan exhibitions drawn from treasured possessions of Museums and private collectors. The Print Department, however, continued to function through the entire season as reported elsewhere by Mr. Zigrosser.

The scheduling of the construction in the Great Hall was linked to the gift in 1959 by the Samuel H. Kress Foundation of the great series of tapestries designed for the Barberini Palace in Rome. This series, it will be recalled, consists of thirteen large tapestries, seven woven from cartoons by Peter Paul Rubens and the remainder from cartoons by Pietro da Cortona—all dealing with episodes in the life of the Emperor Constantine the Great. When presented, the tapestries were in need of repairs and cleaning. This considerable task, the expense of which has been generously met by the Kress Foundation, will have been completed by the fall of 1964. The tapestries will then be installed on the second floor gallery of the Great Hall where they will form a continuous frieze of color and monumental baroque design.

Mr. David DuBon, Assistant Curator of Decorative Arts, has been in charge of the Barberini tapestry project and has guided the restoration program with great skill. He has also prepared a most complete and important study on the history of the tapestries, their iconography and design as well as tracing all works such as cartoons and studies related to this great series. Mr. DuBon's manuscript will be published by the Kress Foundation as part of the publications they plan on the Foundation's gifts to American Museums. Mr. DuBon is also planning a small exhibition for the fall of 1964, of sketches, cartoons and studies related to the Constantine tapestries.

The next major construction project planned is expected to begin after January 1, 1964. It will transform the old lecture hall, which is located on the second floor immediately over the West Foyer, into galleries for the display of the Otto Von Kienbusch magnificent collection of arms and armor. Funds for this purpose will, we trust, be provided by the City under the Capital Program for 1964. Additional major projects are planned for 1967-68 and 1969—all of which have been favorably reviewed by the City Planning Commission.

We must again extend thanks to the Fairmount Park Art Association and to Mr. Orville H. Bullitt for the completion of the floodlighting of the west façade of the Museum. This has greatly improved the view of the Museum from the approaches of the Schuylkill Expressway, the West River Drive and the Pennsylvania Railroad.

EXHIBITIONS

The spring season was greatly brightened by Henry Clifford's magnificent A World of Flowers exhibition. Organized in honor of the 50th Anniversary meeting of The Garden Club of America, the exhibition served also to celebrate the end of a long and difficult winter. The exhibition was chosen with great good taste and was beautifully installed. It was accompanied by an unusually handsome catalogue in which all pictures were illustrated—seven in full color. The catalogue, which was sent to all members, was made possible by the support of Mrs. Wintersteen who raised the necessary funds from among her friends. Our thanks go to her and to all who contributed to the expense of the catalogue and the exhibition.

Accompanying the paintings was a scholarly and beautiful exhibition of flower prints covering every conceivable aspect of this fascinating subject. Mr. Zigrosser's catalogue of this material will remain as a valued addition to the literature on this subject.

Special Exhibition plans for next season include the following: Philadelphia Collects 20th Century; 100 Masterpieces of American Primitive Art (The Mr. and Mrs. Edgar William Garbisch Collection); Franklin C. Watkins, Retrospective Exhibition; Jacques Lipschitz, Retrospective Exhibition; and Summer Loan Collections.

INSTALLATIONS

The problems of presentation of our collections are constantly the concern of the curators in the several departments: Messrs. Clifford, Gardiner, Mellhenny, Madeira, DuBon, and Miss Lee have made important changes which are noted in their reports. These changes, occasioned for the most part by new acquisitions, are part of an over-all policy of retiring objects of lesser quality wherever possible. The high standard of the Museum's presentation is thus maintained and reviewed from year to year.

As the year closes, the walls of the hall leading to the Tea Room on the "A" floor are being lined with monk's cloth over a plywood backing. New lighting will be provided to permit small exhibitions to be shown and changed in this area from time to time. A similar treatment will be given to the North hall into which visitors pass from the West Foyer on their way to the elevators. This area will be used to show new accessions and displays will be changed monthly.

The new Members Room, installed through the initiative of Mrs. Fairfax Leary and Mrs. Borie has been a most welcome addition. Our thanks go to all concerned with this improvement and especially to Mrs. Joseph Eastwick and to the late Mrs. Dorothea Collins for their gifts of a rug and table decorations and to members of the Women's Committee for their financial aid to the project.

FASHION WING

The highlight of the year was the Crystal Ball given by the Fashion Group of Philadelphia for the benefit of the Fashion Wing. This Ball, attended by some 700 guests, was the most elaborate of these biennial affairs having as its honored guests Their Serene Highnesses, the Prince and Princess of Monaco, Governor and Mrs. William Scranton, Mayor and Mrs. James H. J. Tate, the Director and Mrs. Marceau and Marian Anderson and Eddie Fisher representing Philadelphia's contribution to the entertainment world. Also honored were James Galanos and Gustave Tassell, two Philadelphia-born designers who have made outstanding contributions to fashion. The Crystal Ball represented a tremendous amount of work on the part of the several committees in charge. All who worked under the chairmanship of Miss Mildred Custin are devoted friends of the Fashion Wing and the Museum and they all have our warmest thanks.

The services of our able curator of Costume and Textiles, Mrs. McGarvey, cannot be praised too highly. Her care of the Fashion Wing installations is exemplary. With her assistant Miss Carnahan, she has restored most of our vast collection of costumes and accessories. These are beautifully displayed in the Study Libraries of costume which have been the admiration and envy of visiting costume specialists.

The Fashion Wing project could not operate without the support of the Fashion Group of Philadelphia. Its members have been responsible from the beginning in supplying the necessary funds for construction of the galleries and for their professional care. Initially and now, Mrs. Russell Richardson has been a tower of strength and we express our thanks and compliments to her. It has been a pleasure to work with Mrs. Rubye Graham, the present Regional Director, and with all of her associates.

CONSERVATION

A total of 196 objects were treated during the past year under the conservation program. There were eighteen relinings and rather extensive restorations. In October, 1962, Mr. Siegl attended the Exposition of Painting Conservation held at the Brooklyn Museum. These conferences, attended by specialists in conservation, covered examining techniques, consolidation and relining techniques, panel work and transposing techniques, cleaning, compensation and in-painting and air-conditioning care of collections.

This summer Mr. Siegl has been given a Belgian-American Educational Foundation grant to attend the series of seminars on conservation to be given at the Centre National des Recherches Primitifs Flamands in Brussels. These will have to do largely with the preservation of panel pictures and thus should be of timely interest. Ruth Merriam, Maxine Lewis and Louis Sloan continue their excellent services to this important department but we regret to report that Louis Sloan will leave in the fall; he has been awarded a Guggenheim Fellowship.

THE LIBRARY

During 1962-1963 over 1,500 books and periodicals have been added to the Museum Library by gift and purchase, making a total of 53,500 books in the collection. In the above count are included 450 European art auction catalogues covering the years 1928-1953 sent on exchange by the Netherlands Institute for Art History in The Hague. Our pamphlet material on twentieth century artists has grown to thirty-three boxes; it has already compensated for the amount of time involved in setting it up for its usefulness in providing information on new and obscure artists not listed in our reference dictionaries. Several new classifications were added to facilitate the use of the library for the staff and students.

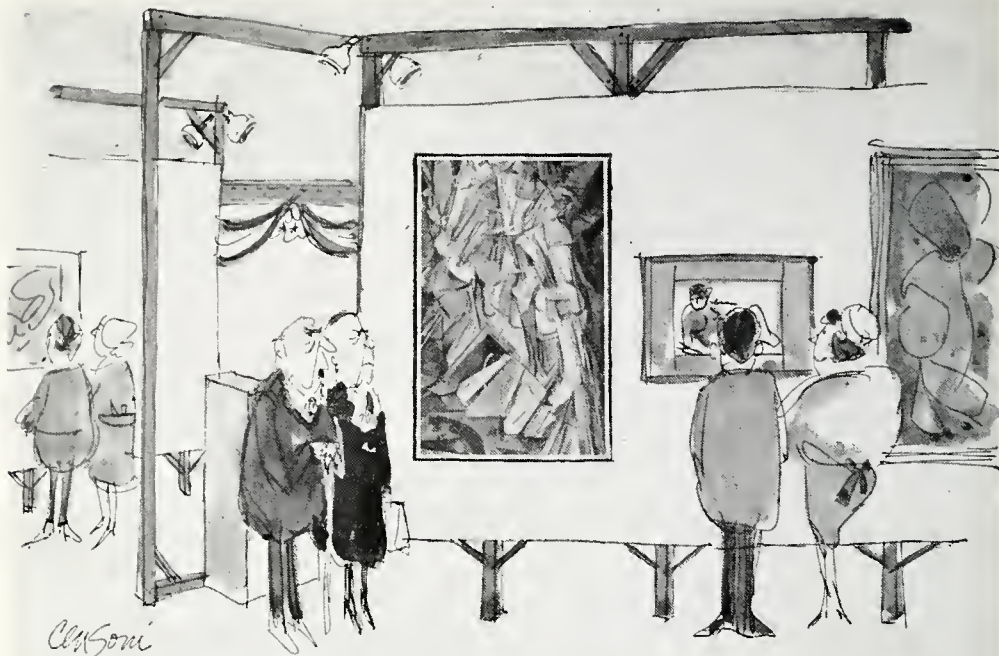

This year our inter-library loan requests totalled 115: fifty-five books and periodicals lent by our library to other institutions, and sixty borrowed for the Staff from other libraries.

The number of college students, graduate and under-graduate, using the library shows an increase over the same period last year, especially from the University of Pennsylvania, Temple University, Bryn Mawr, Swarthmore, Haverford and Beaver Colleges.

Miss Lyons, our Librarian, runs a taut ship with little fuss or bother. Her aid to the Museum, to the Staff, to students, and scholars has made her department one of the most effective services in the Museum.

PHOTOGRAPHY

Our photographer Mr. Wyatt has continued his efficient and excellent services to the Museum. A total of 1,002 negatives in all sizes were made and a total of 16,949 prints of all sizes were produced. This production, comprising material for all departments of the Museum, represents a value, based on our price list, of $26,589.

The record negative inventory project, begun several years ago, has been completed but each year new accessions will add to this material. This year 200 new objects were so recorded. Another project still in work is that of replacing old glass negatives with film and photographing all objects owned by the Museum. This year seventy-seven paintings were photographed for the first time. The "Have you seen" poster project has continued effectively, 140 having been made in all. Mr. Wyatt's plan to have in stock prints of all museum objects is approaching completion.

This greatly expedites the filling of orders. Color photography, formerly "sent out" to be done is now done in the Museum—transparencies for use in the catalogue of A World of Flowers exhibition being an example.

DEPARTMENT OF BUILDINGS

The service of Mr. Corson and his staff cut across all of the activities of the Museum from maintenance, and exhibitions to security. His able lieutenants in those many tasks include Edwin Miller, Lloyd Brooks, Lemuel Nutter and Valentino Niglio (Security), Fred Bickel (Operations) and Miss Jane Edmiston (Personnel). It must be stated that work in all of the building trades is done on the premises with our own men. The Museum is thus akin to a ship at sea fully independent in all but major construction projects of long duration.

We must once more acknowledge our debt to Mr. W. H. Noble, Jr., Director of Fairmount Park, to the Assistant Director John J. Higgins, to Mrs. Regina G. Dougherty, and to Mr. Joseph Williams, all of the Belmont office of the Park. We likewise express our thanks to Superintendent Francis C. Deegan, Inspector Philip J. Cella and Captain William Devlin of the Park Guards. These gentlemen render invaluable assistance on occasions when large evening functions occur. Their services in connection with the recent Crystal Ball were especially valuable. In this instance they were aided by details sent from the Police Department by Deputy Commissioner Howard R. Leary to whom we send thanks.

MEMBERSHIP

The report on membership of Mr. Paul Ingersoll is given elsewhere between these covers. It is a splendid report and indicates the gains made in our membership in less than a year when the Committee began work. We are grateful to Mr. Ingersoll and members of his Committee for their devotion and effective services. We also congratulate Mr. Theodore Newbold and Mrs. Francis Ballard, Co-chairmen of the Young Members Committee for their activities in securing young members. Our membership support has not been commensurate with the population of our metropolitan population. The Membership Committee plans a continuing effort to fill this need and to bring new ideas into focus with respect to the Museum's activities. One such was the benefit exhibition of work by Philadelphians given at the 1015 Gallery, Wyncote, for the benefit of Memberships and the Museum's purchase funds. We express our warm thanks to Mrs. Gladys Myers, the gallery Director, for her friendly gesture.

PUBLICATIONS

Mr. Kneeland McNulty has continued his splendid services as editor of the Museum's BULLETIN and this year, with Henry Gardiner, saw the catalogue of A World of Flowers exhibition through the press.

ACCESSIONS AND LOANS

A total of 1,564 objects in all categories were received by gift, bequest and purchase. Many of these are mentioned in the reports of the department heads. Over the year we lent 275 objects in all categories to fifty-five institutions. One of the largest of these was our loan to the 50th Anniversary Exhibition of the Armory Show of 1913. This included four works by Marcel Duchamp, one by Albert Gleizes, one by Jacques Villon, one by Picabia and one sculpture by Brancusi. All were exhibited at the initial showing at Utica and at the 69th Regiment Armory in New York City. In addition to the foregoing, Miss Gertrude Toomey, our Registrar, with her customary efficiency, also bore the burden of arranging for the arrival and departure of the loans to A World of Flowers exhibition.

SPECIAL EVENTS

This year was highlighted by a number of distinguished special events. One of these was the luncheon tendered by the Philadelphia Chapter of Advertising Promotion Executives at which the Museum received this organization's award for "Outstanding Service in Furthering Public Appreciation of Art."

Other special events in addition to the Crystal Ball mentioned earlier were: Dinner prior to Members Preview for lenders to A World of Flowers exhibition; Reception and Dinner of The Garden Club of America; Reception and Dinner given by TV Guide for Women in Radio and Television; Reception and Dinner of the American Institute of Interior Designers; Reception for the members of the Philadelphia Bar. All of these were distinguished occasions, adding lustre to the prestige of the Museum. Complimentary letters from all groups have compensated in large measure for the considerable work involved to service such occasions.

MUSEUM SHOP

In May, 1963 the Museum Shop expanded to two sales areas in order to increase the variety of books, reproductions and frames. The shop is particularly proud of its selection of inexpensive paperbound books on art which increased from 105 titles to 225 in the last year.

A number of attractive walnut counters and bookcases, screens, and tables, built for the shop by the museum cabinetmakers, considerably improved the appearance and convenience of displays.

In order to facilitate answering the more than 3,000 written inquiries received from the public last year, the shop published three illustrated catalogues listing the Christmas Cards, sculpture casts, and painting reproductions, made from originals in the Philadelphia Museum and which are for sale through the mail or at the sales desks.

This fall a 1963 Christmas Card catalogue, illustrating the twelve new cards, and a book catalogue will be published.

The increased stock, handsome display cases, new brochures, and revised office procedures increased profits 80% from the previous year.

Mrs. Glean Powell, Supervisor, Mrs. Marilyn Good, Assistant Supervisor, and their part-time assistants Miss Carol Cutler and Miss Barbara Dunlap have weathered a difficult winter of transition due to construction. The future of the Shop can look to brighter days.

STAFF

The following changes in personnel have occurred during the past year: Henri Dorra, Assistant Director, resigned as of last September. His place has been filled by Hobart Lyle Williams with the title of Executive Assistant to the Director. Mrs. Marban Sparkman was succeeded by Miss Marie Sturges; Mrs. Virginia Naudé by Mrs. Charles H. Meigs; Miss Ann Hurwitz by Mrs. Mary Manion. Mrs. Anna M. Horan has replaced Mrs. Jean T. Williams. Miss Gail Kilker has transferred to the Print Department and Miss Joan Hassen has replaced her in the Main Office. Mrs. Florence Toomey has been replaced by Mrs. Sybil Swerlick. We have added Miss Charlotte Dorrance Colket as an assistant in the Department of Paintings and Miss Ellen Grabosky as a part-time assistant for Membership.

ADMISSIONS

As of November 20, 1962, our new policy of charging admission to the Museum was initiated. This step was taken after much soul-searching and study and was motivated by the serious need to fill the gap between income and outgo in the running of the Museum.

As was expected, the attendance of the Museum has dropped since the admission charge has been in effect. Some of this was due to the confusion of our construction program and lack of exhibitions, and some was due to the cold winter and the PTC strike. During the four week-ends in May, while A World of Flowers exhibition was on view, the attendance rose 33% over the week-ends in April when we had no major exhibition. We are confident that the attendance will attain its prior level. This has been the pattern in other institutions under similar circumstances.

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

It is my pleasure each year to acknowledge the support of the Staff and of the City Employees on all levels. The Museum can only function effectively with perfect teamwork and this has been freely and generously given.

I wish also, on behalf of the Staff, to thank The Trustees and Governors for their support and the President and Chairman of the Board of Governors for their guidance and friendship.

The Chairman of the several committees have served effectively and have been ever willing to respond to requests for assistance. Thanks go to Mrs. William P. Machold, Chairman of the Women's Committee, to Mrs. John Curtin Russell, Chairman of the Volunteer Guides, to Mrs. John A. Stees, to Mrs. Orvel Sebring, Chairman of the Park Houses Committee, to Mrs. Fairfax Leary whose devotion and help covers so many activities, to Mrs. Benjamin Coates and Mrs. Morris Wenger and their associates in the poster distribution project.

There are others too numerous to mention who have made the problems of the Museum their concern. To all of these members of the Museum family we extend compliments and our warmest thanks.

HENRI MARCEAU, Director

Department of Paintings

Activity in the Painting Department, as indeed in almost all the departments throughout the Museum, was drastically curtailed for three-quarters of the year owing to the extensive construction work in the Great Hall. Despite this, however, it was found possible to continue the usual series of summer showings from Philadelphia collections by a rearrangement of paintings in the second floor galleries. The paintings in the galleries usually given over to the Mexican paintings of the 18th, 19th and 20th centuries, to the American painters in the Gallatin collection and to some other contemporary American painters were retired to storage making it possible to exhibit many pictures from the collections owned in Philadelphia. We were fortunate to have again the masterpieces from the collection of Mrs. Carroll S. Tyson and these were exhibited as an entity in one large gallery. Then through the generosity of Mr. and Mrs. William Coxe Wright we were able to exhibit for the first time in this Museum most of their entire collection. These too were shown together as an entity, and included such painters as Corot, Monet, Gauguin, Fantin-Latour, Sisley and Boudin, making a pleasant ensemble to the delight of the many summer visitors. In three adjoining galleries, paintings from the combined collections of S. S. White, III, and Vera White and from Mrs. Herbert C. Morris were shown. These collections were so rich that one gallery was devoted exclusively to French paintings of the 19th century, a second to the French 20th century, and a third for American 20th century painters.

Inspired by the large exhibition in New York in the spring of 1962, Hommage to Picasso, another gallery on the second floor was used to point up the richness of Picasso's works owned in Philadelphia. Included were Picassos from the White collection, the Morris collection as well as from the collections of Mrs. John Wintersteen and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Clifford.

The summer exhibitions of locally owned paintings of such distinction have proved most successful in every way. Not only do they enrich the Museum during what may be termed the "quieter" months of the year but they also are of great service to the many art-lovers and students who are thus able to see with great ease paintings otherwise confined to private houses and not always accessible. A similar exhibition has been planned for the summer of 1963.

At the close of the large Eakins exhibition in 1962 the two fine paintings, The Gross Clinic and The Agnew Clinic belonging to the Jefferson Medical College and the University of Pennsylvania, respectively, remained on extended loan for a period slightly less than a year. The reawakened interest in Eakins' work due to the exhibition was thus enormously gratified through the opportunity to study and enjoy his two masterpieces of painting for a further period of time. These have since been returned.

During the course of the year there were many accessions of note, some of which were outright gifts: Mary Benezet by C. W. Peale, gift of Mrs. Thomas Evans; three early Demuths, gift of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Finkelstein; Forain, L'Audience, gift of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Wiesenberger; two miniatures by Benjamin Trott, gift of Mrs. William A. Jaquette; and Head of Rosalind Tureck, bronze, by Jacob Epstein, gift of Mr. and Mrs. George Friedland.

Others given with the owners retaining a life interest include Thomas Sully, Portrait of his Wife, Mr. and Mrs. Wharton Sinkler; Sargent, Portrait of Miss Frances Watts, Mr. and Mrs. Wharton Sinkler; and Lachaise, Standing Woman, bronze, Mr. and Mrs. R. Sturgis Ingersoll.

Further fractional interests in previously recorded gifts were given on the Mary Cassatt, Portrait of Gardner Cassatt, gift of Mrs. Gardner Cassatt, and the Toulouse-Lautrec, Model, gift of Mrs. John Wintersteen.

The exhibition of the season was, of course, A World of Flowers which opened May 2. This included eighty paintings from Western artists, together with fifteen Oriental paintings. The largest group was the thirty-two Flemish and Dutch paintings followed by the French group of twenty-one paintings, then thirteen American, four Russian, four German, three Italian, two Spanish and one English. In the Oriental section there were fifteen Chinese, eight Indian and four Japanese works. Three 17th century Flemish tapestries of garden scenes were added and the whole was seen together with the 153 prints chosen by Mr. Zigrosser from the permanent collections in the Print Department. The paintings were lent by the Louvre in Paris, the Rijksmuseum Kröller-Müller Museum in Holland, from many museums throughout the United States, as well as many from private collections, both here and abroad. This exhibition coincided with the 50th Anniversary celebration of the founding of the Garden Club of America. A fully illustrated catalogue contained 130 black and white illustrations as well as seven color plates.

The many loans during the year included a group of portraits, three Gilbert Stuarts, three Thomas Sullys and an Eichholtz from the collection of Captain and Mrs. John Cadwalader; a Krimmel, Victuallers Parade, 1821, from Robert Carlen; four paintings, a Benjamin West, Thomas Birch, Thomas Hicks and Thomas Doughty, lent anonymously; a small wire sculpture, Portrait of Carl Zigrosser by Alexander Calder, also lent anonymously. In addition, Mrs. William Cramp Sheetz, Jr., lent us an Epstein bronze of St. Michael.

Again the department was fortunate to have two part-to-full-time assistants. Mrs. Erica Weeder gave willingly of her time throughout the autumn to help catalogue some of our twentieth century paintings. She left in the winter to study painting at the Pennsylvania Academy of the Fine Arts. This spring Miss Charlotte Colket began work as a full-time assistant, also helping in catalogue work.

The Painting Department has also been active in identifying many objects which puzzle their owners. This service was extended to 287 people who brought in 314 objects for assistance or advice. Regrettably, none was of outstanding quality, which may only go to prove that nowadays there are very few treasures left in basements or attics that some other member of the family has not appreciated and removed first.

Department of Prints and Drawings

The most valuable and important single acquisition in the Print Department during the year is the drawing Haystacks (Les Meules, 1888) by Vincent Van Gogh, given by Mrs. S. S. White, III. Listed in de la Faille's catalogue as No. 1427, it is of exceptional quality and eminently characteristic of Van Gogh's rendering of landscape and figures. It has an additional cachet of quality in that it was formerly in the collection of Henri Matisse. The Museum has also acquired a sanguine drawing, Head of a Girl, ca. 1760, by Greuze, a study for a figure in his famous painting L'Accordée du Village in the Louvre. It was formerly in the collections of Mme de Conantré, Baronne de Ruble (née de Conantré), Mme de Witte (née de Ruble), and Marquise de Bryas (née de Witte). Other notable drawings that have come in are Woman posed by a chair (actually a portrait of his wife, Marjorie Organ) by Robert Henri, formerly in the George Bellows Collection; one of Leonard Baskin's large brush drawings for Homer's Iliad (given by Paul Ingersoll and Lessing J. Rosenwald, and supplemented by additional funds), a Still Life, pencil drawing by Cusumano (given by Charles Z. Mann), a drawing by Ives Tanguy (given by his widow's estate), and a figure drawing by the Cuban, Milian, (given by Mrs. Dorothy Norman). Likewise worthy of mention is a leaf from an Italian manuscript Graduale with an historiated initial, illuminated by Jacobello da Salerno.

In the field of prints the most important single one acquired during this year came as a gift from William Goldman. It is a specially beautiful impression, in perfect condition, of Rembrandt's etching, Three Trees of 1643. Rembrandt has been called the Beethoven of landscape; the analogy is especially close between this print and the Sixth or Pastoral Symphony. Three Trees, rich in its orchestration of light and dark, and magical in its evocation of the glistening freshness of a passing shower, is one of the masterpieces of landscape etching.

Some other exceptionally fine prints by old masters were acquired through the Wilstach Fund and other sources; for instance: a superb impression of Rembrandt's drypoint, Christ, between His parents, returning from the Temple of 1654, the charming Renaissance engraving The Birth of Adonis by Benedetto Montagna (ca. 1510) and an early proof seldom encountered, of Claude Gellée's view of the Roman Forum (Le Campo Vaccino) as it appeared in 1636. The truth of Flechsig's dictum that the full beauty of Cranach's woodcuts can be appreciated only in the proofs before letters is demonstrated by two such proofs from the Passion series. They are, indeed, as rare as they are beautiful. Another interesting acquisition is Ugo da Carpi's chiaroscuro woodcut of A Sibyl after Raphael in two versions, original and copy. Amusingly enough, we do not definitely know which is which. The version which Bartsch called the original and which was unchallenged for over a hundred years, is now being criticized by modern scholars in favor of the so-called copy. Whatever the final verdict will be, the Museum will always have the original.

The two da Carpi prints came from the collection of William M. Ivins, Jr., the late Curator of Prints at the Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York. He died in 1961, and his personal collection of prints was recently dispersed. The Museum acquired another group of prints from his collection, and it is a matter of satisfaction and a sentimental tribute that we of the Museum now own some prints which once belonged to one of the great print curators of all time. The group in question consists of fourteen original soft-ground etchings, Views in Paris, 1802, by Thomas Girtin (English School, 1775-1802). That these masterly city views are not better known among print collectors is due to their extreme rarity. The artist, dead prematurely at twenty-seven years, lived only to complete the outlines in soft-ground (the planned aquatint washes were added later by F. C. Lewis and others). But still more unfortunately, nearly all of the outline trial proofs, most of the published edition, and all of the copper plates were destroyed by a fire in his brother's shop shortly after his death. Thus the prints are seldom seen in any form, and yet in the opinion of both Hind and Ivins they represent the tradition of English architectural draughtsmanship at its highest point of development.

Haystacks. Pen and ink drawing by Vincent Van Gogh, 1888. Given by Mrs. S. S. White, III.

Another rarity, and at the same time an important addition to the Museum's holdings in XIX century English graphic art, is a scrapbook containing twenty-two trial proofs of mezzotints by David Lucas after John Constable, being the complete set of English Landscape as later published in 1833, together with two original drawings and one original etching (Milford Bridge) by Constable. The trial proofs supplement our set of the published states, and are evidence of the close collaboration between the painter and the mezzotinter, a working partnership indeed so close as to entitle Constable to a share in the execution of the plates. The set as a whole, of course, is one of the two greatest masterpieces of landscape in mezzotint, the other being Turner's Liber Studiorum.

Some French XIX century prints of exceptional quality have been added to the collection: a proof before the letters of one of Daumier's Gens de Justice, a landscape etching, Plateau de Bellecroix, by Theodore Rousseau of Barbizon fame, lithographs by Barye and Redon (several given by Lessing J. Rosenwald).

That much abused phrase, "great rarity," has appeared several times in this report. Opportunities do turn up of acquiring important works which may not come again in a generation, if at all; and it is the duty of a wise curator to make the most of the lucky chance. Rarity in itself is no virtue, but in conjunction with masterpieces, it becomes an imperative obligation. The phrase must be invoked again in connection with the color woodcuts from the very first edition of the Chinese technical manual The Ten Bamboo Studio of 1633. Robert Treat Paine has made a study of this work, and catalogues the sets, all of them incomplete, at the Boston Museum of Fine Arts, the Fogg Museum, Kansas City Museum; and likewise only eight woodcuts at the British Museum, twelve at the Berlin State Library, one in the Musée Cernuschi in Paris, and a group in the possession of Walter Bondy from whose collection the Museum has acquired five woodcuts. The work is the first instance of color printing in China (anticipating anything in Japan) and therefore a milestone in the technical history of the print; it happens also to be one of the most beautiful examples. Later editions, from which the Museum has numerous specimens, are much inferior in cutting and color printing.

Our holdings in Japanese prints have been strengthened by eighteen woodcuts chiefly from the Tokaido by Hiroshige, given by N. R. Miller, and by eleven contemporary Sosaku Hanga (thanks to Felix Juda and Albert J. Caplan) by Fukui, Kimura, Hagiwara, Masaji Yoshida, Rikio Takahashi and others. The five volume work entitled Tales of Foreigners by Morishima, 1787, shows western art—including copies of Dürer's studies in proportion—through Japanese eyes. To continue with contemporary foreign prints: from India came works by Moti and Mukul Dey; from Colombia, South America, by Omar Rayo and Guillermo Silva; from Europe by Appel, Escher, Reinold, Rothenstein, Valerie Thornton, Eglau, Kuegler, Kruck, Richterich, Ober, Fuchs, Porzano, Vespignani, Braque, Vicillard and others.

In the photographic field one might mention the acquisition of a portfolio of sixteen signed photographs by Ansel Adams and a group of 405 plates from Muybridge's Animal Locomotion, 1887 (given by the Trade and Convention Center of Philadelphia). Noteworthy, too, was the gift of eighty posters and ninety-four pieces of printed ephemera by E. McKnight Kauffer, given by his widow through the good offices of Cooper Union.

Les Gens De Justice. Lithograph by Daumier, 1846, proof before letters. W. P. Wilstach Collection.

As usual there have been numerous additions to the Museum collection of contemporary American prints. Among Philadelphia artists one may mention Bookbinder, Eugene Feldman, Hankins, Kaplan, Maitin, Katherine McCormick (given by Bess McCormick), Paone, Savelli and Garner (Tullis). The roster of other American printmakers reads as follows: Albers, Will Barnet, Barton, Baskin, Becker, Kathan Brown, Bunce, Ted Davies, Dehn, Domjan, Drewes, Frasconi, Elaine Galen, Grace Hartigan, Ihle, Inez Johnston, John Paul Jones, Lasansky, Rico LeBrun, Leiber, Ethel Magafan, Ezio Martinelli, Mazur, Moy, Miyasaki, Pozzatti, Rauschenberg, Schrag, Shaub, Syd Solomon, Spruance, Stasack, Stasik, Sykes, Summers, Thrall, Uchima, Vreda, Sylvia Wald, Williams and Zajac. Specially noteworthy are the portfolios of prints by Paone and Savelli.

Both the Print Club and the Color Print Society have added notable prints to their permanent collections which are housed in the Museum; and likewise the Philadelphia Water color Club gave a Bornarth print and water colors by Mac S. Fisher and Oliver Nuse to its permanent collection at the Museum. Lessing J. Rosenwald and Mr. and Mrs. Siegel as usual continue to be faithful in their benefactions. David Gwinn has added one drawing and four prints to our growing collection of pictures of eating and drinking. Other benefactors, not specifically cited above, include Louis Benedict, Titus Giese, Mrs. John Wintersteen, Henri Marceau, Theodor Siegl, William Schab, James Brewton, George Crawford, Gladys Myers, Dr. and Mrs. Scarf, Mrs. V. N. Powelson and T. Simonson. The Print Department is grateful to every one of the donors for their generosity and devotion to the public interest.

It is likewise a pleasure to commend the personnel of the Print Department. Mrs. Markley H. Boyer, as a volunteer, continued her task of cataloguing the Museum's large collection of Imagerie Populaire. Above all, the Curator wishes to thank Kneeland McNulty, Gail Kilker and Otto Lobe for efficient and faithful service above the call of duty.

The exhibition program of the Print Department was important and impressive, all the more so since during a considerable part of the year, owing to the reconstruction and finishing of the Great Stair Hall, the Print Division was the only department of the Museum which offered a continuous round of exhibitions. During the summer a selection from the Permanent Collection of the Print Club was shown, signaling twenty years of rewarding collaboration between the Museum and the Print Club. The autumn season was inaugurated by a show of American Prints Today, arranged by the Print Council of America, and considered one of the most important and significant reviews of contemporary American Graphic art over the last three years. This was followed by the exhibition of Edward Hopper's complete graphic oeuvre. The collection, acquired last year, is the only complete and definitive assemblage of his etchings and drypoints extant; these were shown for the first time anywhere in honor of the 80th birthday of this distinguished American artist. An illustrated catalogue was issued in connection with the exhibition. During the holiday season a collection of Christmas and New Year's cards made by artists and sent as personal greetings to their friends—"The cards that money cannot buy"—were on view. These delightful and often amusing ephemera had been collected and preserved over a period of about thirty years. Simultaneously there was an exhibition of the drawings by Leonard Baskin to illustrate Richmond Lattimore's translation of Homer's Iliad. These large, powerful and often brutal drawings are in a style quite different from the neoclassic insipidities of the Flaxmann School. In February, German Prints at Mid-Century were shown. This exhibition, arranged by the National Carl Schurz Association, offers a cross section of German graphic art as it is practised today. At the beginning of May the Museum presented a major exhibition, A World of Flowers, in honor of the 50th Anniversary of the Garden Club of America. It was in two parts, a loan exhibition of paintings and other works of art, and Five Centuries of Flower Prints drawn from the Museum's own holdings. An elaborately illustrated catalogue was issued for the occasion.

Herewith is a schedule of the exhibitions held during the year.

The Twentieth Anniversary of the Print Club Permanent Collection, July 6-October 15, 1962.

American Prints Today, September 20-October 15, 1962.

Department of Decorative Arts

The Department of Decorative Arts has had a relatively quiet, uneventful year. No new galleries were opened and there has been no exhibition. The work of the four curators has, however, continued and a number of important works of art have been added by gift and purchase.

It has long been a policy to acquire objects for specific places in the Museum where they are needed, and thus gradually the series of period rooms has become better furnished and less bleak. Thus for the Louis XIV room with its decorated panels from the Hôtel Lauzun, a colorful tapestry portière, bearing in the middle an escutcheon charged with the Royal Arms of France and Navarre, flanked by the figures of Flora and Fame, has been purchased and added to the John D. McIlhenny Collection. These portières were in great vogue during the reign of Louis XIV in France. Four designs of Charles LeBrun for these panels were first woven about 1660 and repeated countless times at the Gobelins factory.

For the adjoining French room, from the Château de Draveil, a spectacularly beautiful crystal chandelier in the Louis XV period has been given to the Museum through the generosity of Mrs. Henry W. Breyer, Sr. Eighteenth century French lighting fixtures are extremely rare, but an example such as this, with a silvered brass frame, is yet rarer. Similar examples are found in inventories of the period, the silvered frame described as la fonte argentée and the Bohemian glass described as cristal de Bohème.

The range of English rooms has not been neglected and two purchases, both for the John D. McIlhenny Collection, are significant improvements. The first Sutton Scarsdale now has a handsome English brass twelve-light chandelier, dating from the mid-eighteenth century, and the room from Lansdowne House, designed by Robert Adam, at long last has a suitable carpet that might have been designed for the room. Adam is known to have made designs for such knotted carpets woven in England in the second half of the 18th century to complete the unified decoration of the interiors of his houses. This acquisition greatly enhances the appearance of the room.

Philadelphiana is always a chief concern, and two important pieces of local cabinetmaking have been acquired. Mrs. John Wintersteen has presented a rare early 18th century walnut secretary bookcase with mirror doors, in the William and Mary style, formerly in the collection of Miss Ella Parsons, and an extremely generous anonymous donor has given an unusually handsome mahogany card table of a type hitherto not represented in the collection. This example of the Philadelphia Chippendale style of the second half of the 18th century has ball and claw feet, and the carving on the knees of the cabriole legs is of remarkably good quality. Of much later date is an example of the full Empire style, a type of American furniture long neglected but now becoming more appreciated, as the exhibition "Classical America 1815-1845" at the Newark Museum indicates. Richly carved and stencilled, this piece of furniture is a piano still bearing the label of its maker, Emilius N. Scherr, Pianoforte and Organ Builder, 264 High Street, Philadelphia, and is the gift of Mrs. George L. Rush.

Although tea and coffee were consumed in large quantities in the late 18th century and great numbers of silver coffee pots, tea pots, sugar bowls and creamers were made by Philadelphia silversmiths, matched sets are extraordinarily rare. Consequently it is surprising to record that three full sets have been added to the Museum's collection. First in style, bought for the John D. McIlhenny Collection, is a tea set by the brothers Joseph and Nathaniel Richardson, active from 1771 to 1791. The tea pot is of a type not owned before, and is round, straight-sided, and has a pineapple finial on the lid. The shape is very like that of Oriental export china pots of the same period, and probably is an example of Chinese influence. The inverted pear-shaped sugar bowl has the same finial, and the whole set, which includes a rare slop bowl and a creamer, all have the finely engraved initials W S M, and each piece is decorated with beading.

The second set is by Joseph Richardson, Jr., (1752-1831), working on his own without his brother Nathaniel, and is later in style. It consists of a tea pot, sugar bowl, slop bowl and creamer, all matching, and all engraved M W for Mary Warder, not Martha Washington! Classical in design, the fluted bases and sides are very graceful in shape. The finials are also fluted and are urn-shaped.

The third group is a coffee set and consists of a coffee pot, a covered sugar bowl and a creamer. It too is by Joseph Richardson, Jr., and is exactly the same pattern as the tea set. Both of the beautiful Richardson services are given by Gordon A. Hardwick in memory of Marjory Taylor Hardwick.

seum's chief responsibility, but interest in silver from other countries has not lagged. Consequently it was with great delight that a superb pair of candelabra, made in London by Nicholas Dumée in 1776-1777, was received as the gift of Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Hompe. The candelabra are installed in the room from Wrightington Hall and greatly enhance the 18th century atmosphere.

Tucker china, made in Philadelphia between 1825 and 1838, is one of our great specialties and prides. Consequently when a piece with a new, unpublished mark appears, it is felt that it must be acquired. So it is pleasant to record the gift by Mrs. Henry W. Breyer, Sr., of a Walker-shaped pitcher painted with polychrome and gold floral decorations. The unique mark in gold reads as follows: "Tucker & Hulme Phila. 1828."

After the death several years ago of Walter J. Johnson, one of Philadelphia's most admired interior decorators, one of his colleagues, Mr. Ward Stanleigh Krewson, conceived the idea of a memorial in his memory, and it was decided to redecorate and refurnish the south drawing room at Sweetbriar Mansion, the house built in 1796 by Samuel Breck on the banks of the Schuylkill. A committee was formed consisting of Mrs. Dunham Higgins, Mrs. Herbert C. Morris, Mr. J. A. Lloyd Hyde, Mr. Oscar E. Mertz, as well as Mr. Krewson, with the undersigned as chairman, and with Mrs. A. L. Hood Miller representing the Modern Club. Generous contributions in kind and in cash were received from Mr. Johnson's relatives, his clients and devoted friends. In consequence, the room has been repainted and metamorphosed into a most elegant and colorful late 18th century-early 19th century drawing room, now surely one of the most attractive in all the old houses in Fairmount Park. All of the generous gifts and purchases are the property of the Philadelphia Museum of Art. Enough money was raised to repaint the north drawing room as well, and to install an early 19th century English chandelier with hurricane shades, matching the one in the already completed Walter J. Johnson Memorial Room. The Modern Club, which occupies and maintains Sweetbriar, has generously offered to give a suitable carpet; both rooms will eventually be completely refurbished, to the benefit of the many visitors to the houses in the park.

Department of Far Eastern Art

During the past year the activities of the Department of Far Eastern Art have been varied. The Sassanian and Islamic galleries on the south side of the Oriental Wing were refurbished and new lighting was installed in the small octagonal Iranian room. This enabled us to show some of the Persian miniatures from the S. S. White III and Vera White Collection to the advantage they so richly deserve.

The Winter Bulletin was devoted to a catalogue of the Chinese furniture owned by and lent to the Museum. We hope that it may be not only a contribution to knowledge but also serve to stimulate interest in this long neglected aspect of Chinese Art. The Museum now has a nucleus of a fine collection which I hope to see enlarged.

In the spring in honor of the 50th Anniversary meeting of The Garden Club of America, the Japanese garden was replanted and the Chinese and Japanese galleries re-hung with pictures and screens showing flower subjects. The Oriental Wing was also decorated by ladies of the Philadelphia garden clubs.

This fall I hope to be able to re-install three galleries on the North side of the Wing with our fine examples of early Chinese Art.

I am happy to report that the Department has received many gifts. It is naturally a pleasure to acknowledge them here and to be able to list the donors as well as thank them again for their generous support.

The Chinese Collection was notably enlarged by gifts. Mrs. Henry Breyer, Sr., long a friend of the Department, gave fifteen pieces of jade and other hard stone carvings, fine examples of 18th Century Chinese lapidary art as well as good examples of cameo and plain glass. Mrs. Henry Breyer, Jr., presented a handsome pair of lotus-form Chinese "export" jardinières which promptly found their way into the Decorative Arts Department.

Rodman A. Heeren's gift in memory of his mother, Fernanda Wanamaker Munn, included a Han Dynasty bronze tripod vessel, two beautiful 18th Century Fukien porcelain jardinières and sixteen Tang tomb figurines. Many of these pieces will be installed in the new galleries to be opened before the end of the year. A very thoughtful gift of money from Mr. Heeren will enable us to complete the installation.

From Henry Rogers Benjamin we have accepted a handsome three-color glazed Tang tomb figurine of a bullock and a Yüan Dynasty pottery Buddhist figure, subject to a life interest. Theodore Buchholz has again enlarged our collection of Chinese glass with the gift of two 19th Century pink vases.

With money given by Donald Stuart Morrison we purchased a most unusual box, made of laminated strips of bamboo, in the form of a mallow flower, probably dating from the 17th Century. It still bears on the lacquered inside of its lid a palace label.

The Japanese Collection was enriched by a number of gifts. Outstanding among them were a 19th Century landscape, dated 1870, by Hyakunen and a rare Imari bowl showing Dutch ships and seamen, given by Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Balestrieri. Joseph U. Seo presented a charming Momoyama red and black lacquer bowl, decorated with maple leaves and waves and Mrs. John Wintersteen gave a Haniwa figure of a man which she had formerly lent us.

Edmund L. Zalinski has added thirteen more swords to the collection bearing his name as well as a miscellaneous group of Oriental objects.

We also acquired, through purchase, a delightful pair of kakemonos by Mori Sosen (1748-1821). They show a family of monkeys playing with sparrows and are outstanding examples of the works of a man whose specialty was the depiction of monkeys.

Theodore T. Newbold gave a Korean Li Dynasty bowl, decorated with blue flowers, to strengthen our too small group of Korean ceramics and Paul Ingersoll made possible the acquisition of three Javanese shadow puppets of the 19th Century.

Our small but choice collection of Thai and Cambodian Art has been enlarged by the anonymous gift of three Buddhist manuscripts dating from the 17th-19th centuries and a large painting, in the early 19th Century Bangkok style, of a Standing Buddha and Two Disciples, from Tonburi, Thailand.

The South Asian Section has received a number of anonymous gifts. Notable among them are a stone Uma-Maheśvara of 10th Century Bihar, the head of a Divinity from Aiholi of the 6-7th century, eleven Nepalese and Tibetan bronzes, an unusual Nepalese 18th century embroidery, and a 19th century wood carving of the birth of Krishna. The Watumull Foundation also presented eight books to enlarge the library of the Tibetan-Nepalese Gallery.

With funds from the Temple Fund we purchased a remarkably fine granite image of Siva from South India of the 10th century.

I would also like to acknowledge with thanks the gift of funds from Mrs. Howard Lewis which considerably lightened the continuing expense of maintaining our Japanese garden.

Division of Education

The "Calendar of Events," initiated this year, and to be published by this Division every autumn and spring, lists the range of special activities offered to Museum members and the general public. The program is as rich and full as facilities and funds allow. However, the great bulk of the Division's energy is channeled into programs which are generally less well publicized: the extensive Docent Program for school visits, the Studio Art Classes for adults and children, and the Slide and Film Libraries.

MUSEUM LESSONS FOR SCHOOL GROUPS

In order to make the Museum's resources available to school groups as an extension of classroom study, we are developing a program of specific Museum Lessons: The Middle Ages; The Renaissance; The Orient; The Pennsylvania Dutch; Life in America 1750-1800, and Introduction to Painting.

Additional lessons are being planned for next year. It is felt that whereas a general tour has certain merits as an introduction to the Museum, a specific Museum Lesson devoted to the decorative and pictorial arts and artifacts of a particular time and place, introduces the Museum in a practical way as a real workshop, bringing into focus with fine objects the book learning of the classroom.

A descriptive brochure on Museum Lessons has been printed and sent to all schools in Philadelphia and surrounding counties.

We have instituted this past year a Docent Training Program both for regular as well as new docents. This is held on a seminar level, and is conducted by Museum Curators and specialists from the faculties of colleges and universities in the metropolitan area. By means of this training program, we intend to make certain that our programs are always fresh and stimulating for both student and docent alike.

The Philadelphia Board of Public Education greatly assists us in our school visit program.

STUDIO ART CLASSES FOR CHILDREN AND ADULTS

The Studio Art Classes continue to be well attended. In addition to our classes in painting, drawing and sculpture, we have added a class in watercolor conducted by Benjamin Eisenstat, and another in printmaking conducted by Samuel Maitin. The inclusion of these art techniques in our class schedule completes the Division's program in the Fine Arts.

SLIDE AND FILM LIBRARIES

Although not generally known, the Museum's Slide Library is one of the largest in the world, and its slide rental and sales service (approximately 60,000 slides covering the entire history of art and architecture) may well be the world's largest. The Museum is known for the fine quality of its slides. Great care is exerted to make sure that a perfect master slide is obtained from which reproductions will be made, and only the slide which most faithfully reproduces the color, texture and dimensionality of the object is used. 2,437 new slides have been added to the collection this year.*

The Film Library consists of well over a hundred art films. It is being extended as fast as suitable new films are made. An up-to-date catalogue is in preparation.

LECTURE SERIES

Six separate lecture series were offered to members and the general public this year. Anne Coffin Hanson gave ten lectures on "The New World of the Italian Renaissance," and John W. McCoubrey gave six lectures on "American Painting and the European Tradition." Hobson Pittman gave two series on art appreciation, and a special series of lectures was presented on the occasion of the spring exhibition, "A World of Flowers."

There were two subscription lecture series given by various speakers distinguished in their particular fields. "The Decorative Arts," and the "Masterpiece Lectures," which focused on specific Museum Masterpieces: Rodin's Burghers of Calais, and Gates of Hell; pieces from our Sèvres Collection; the paintings by Hieronymus Bosch in the Johnson Collection; the Museum's collection of sculptures by Brancusi, the world's largest, and Prometheus Bound by Peter Paul Rubens.

We have instituted a policy of offering students reduced rates to our subscription lectures. A gratifying number of students, singly and in groups, from both local and out-of-state schools, subscribed to these lectures.

EXCEPTIONAL FILMS

Again this year, with the cooperation of the Exceptional Film Society, we presented two series of films in the form of "festivals:" the "Shakespeare Film Festival," and the "Somerset Maugham Film Festival." Both were well attended and well received.

SUNDAY CONCERTS AND RECITALS

Under the continuing guidance of Mrs. Herbert C. Morris, the Sunday concerts at the Museum have become a permanent part of Philadelphia's cultural scene. Special mention should be made of the Settlement Music School, the Philadelphia Musical Academy, and the National Association for American Composers and Conductors. However, these concerts are made possible only through the generous contributions of friends of the Museum.

TOURS OUT OF TOWN

Each of the two out-of-town tours was fully subscribed and extremely successful. "The International Style of about 1400" at the Walter's Art Gallery and the Cone Collection at the Baltimore Museum of Art were the highlights of the autumn tour, "A Day in Baltimore." April's "Armory Show—50th Anniversary Exhibition," explains itself, but incorporated the added attraction of lunch-

* Since May 1, 1962 we have sold approximately 25,829 slides. This represents a total of some 432 orders from institutions and individuals. This year our greatest number of orders came from Pennsylvania, New York, California, Canada and Missouri.

con with Marcel Duchamp, and a visit to the private collection of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph F. Colin.

SPECIAL EVENTS

Occasionally, opportunities for unscheduled exhibitions and lectures arise and this Division is always happy to schedule them if at all possible.

Through the auspices of Mrs. Robert McLean we were able to exhibit an impressive collection of photographs by Toni Frissel, entitled "A Number of Things." On December 12th we were pleased to cooperate with the Museum's Department of Prints and present a lecture by Leonard Baskin at the opening of an exhibition of his drawings for a new translation of the "Iliad." In May, in cooperation with the Brazilian Con-sulate, we arranged for an exhibition of art work by Brazilian children, and a showing of the Cannes prize-winning film, "O Pagador de Promessas."

STAFF

We are happy to welcome the following new members on our staff: Mrs. Mary Manion is the Division's secretary; Mrs. Dona Z. Wohlert is Registrar of Classes, and Miss Carol Kagel, Appointment Secretary. The Docent staff has been increased to seven with the addition of Mrs. Pauline F. Boymel and Mrs. Margo Burnett. Miss Fran McGinnis is the new assistant in the Slide Library.

Membership

The 1963 fiscal year saw great membership activity—a total of 1,917 new members joined the Museum: 1,084 Annual, 778 Family, 47 Contributing, 3 Sustaining, and 5 Life. This compares with a total of 475 new members in all categories in the preceding year. A Members' Lounge opened in September under the direction of Membership Secretary Mrs. Norman Kelly. Charles Coiner designed a striking new membership brochure, and Samuel Maitin designed a series of eye-catching membership posters. A publicity committee of Mrs. Borie, James Crimmins, George Dessart of WCAU-TV, Mrs. James Stevenson, Jr., and three representatives from the Annenberg School of Communications, was named. Speaking engagements, radio interviews, a large poster on the City Hall billboard, and many other publicity items resulted from their efforts. Mrs. Fairfax Leary and Mrs. Wintersteen did a magnificent job tying in membership with "Flower Day at the Museum" on May 10. A new membership category, the Family membership with annual dues of $15 makes possible free admission for children under age 16 when accompanied by a member parent, thus replacing the husband and wife $15 Joint membership. Also, discounts at the Museum Shop were made available.

The "Members Art Purchase Fund" was established. Twenty-five per cent of all new members' dues are deposited in the fund which will help finance the purchase of works of art needed by the Museum. The balance in this fund as of June 30, 1963 was $7,248. We are much indebted to Mrs. Gladys Myers, Director of Gallery 1015, in Wyncote, for sponsoring a benefit on May 10 at her gallery for the Members Art Purchase Fund. As a result, 81 new members were added to the membership rolls, and proceeds of $1,512 which included commissions on the sale of works of art on opening night were added to the fund.

Warmest thanks to Honorary Membership Chairman Mrs. John Wintersteen, Mrs. Fairfax Leary, Chairman of the Women's Membership Committee, and her co-chairmen Mrs. Malcolm Lloyd and Mrs. Joseph Townsend, Jr., and to the members of their committee; Mesdames Walter Annenberg, William Brinley, Henri Elkan, Jack Friedland, David Goldman, William Hancock, Horace Jones II, Herman Krekstein, Nelson Leidner, Samuel Lenher, Barton Lippincott, William Machold, John Moffly, William Peace, Robert Preucel, John Price, George Reath, J. Permar Richards, Jr., Russell Richardson, Howard Roberts, William Rupert, Henry Savage, Victor Seixas, Jr., Dorothea Sitley, C. Randolph Snowden, James Stevenson, Jr., Lloyd Wells and Morris Wenger.

Equally warm thanks to Theodore Newbold, Chairman of the Young Members Committee, his co-chairmen Mrs. Francis Ballard and Mrs. John Drayton, and to their committee members: Mesdames Allen Clay, Jr., Isaac Clothier, IV, Richard Ellis, Francis Gowen, Albert Greenfield, Jr., Morris Lloyd, Jr., Paul Todd Makler, Milton Schneidman, Leon Solis-Cohen, Jr., Herbert Stanton, William Tassman, Rodman Thompson, William Wolgin; Dr. Luther Brady and Dr. Murray Smyth, Jr.; and James Crimmins, John Keene, Samuel Maitin, Kneeland McNulty and Robert Scott.

A corporate and firms membership committee under the chairmanship of

B. Dawson Coleman will get under way in the fall of 1963.

On behalf of all those who worked on membership in the past year, I want to thank Museum President R. Sturgis Ingersoll, Museum Director Henri Marceau, and the members of his staff for their help and support and, at times, considerable patience!

PAUL M. INGERSOLL, Chairman

Philadelphia Museum College of Art

After three years as Chairman of the Board of Governors of the Philadelphia Museum College of Art, I have asked the privilege of presenting this year's Annual Report for the College.

First of all, I want to pay a word of tribute to the President of the Museum Corporation, to the Dean of the Museum College, and to the Chairman of the Board of Governors whom I have succeeded, and to their predecessors who kept the College in the first rank of schools of design in this country from the time of its inception in 1876 to the present. Ten years ago Dean Warwick turned over to Dean Benson a fine school of industrial design destined to become exclusively a degree-granting college in keeping with the needs of present-day professionals in the applied arts, industrial design and art teaching. The confidence and understanding that existed between Sturgis Ingersoll, Charles Coiner, and Dean Benson made possible the many and difficult changes in educational plan and faculty organization, changes which have progressed most constructively.

The primary objective of the Museum College continues to be what it has always been, namely, to train first-rate artists, art designers for industry and to train art teachers for the schools. Industry in our modern society requires that such an artist, designer or teacher be a broadly educated person, often with a Master's degree in his specialty. In order to supply this training, we must continue to attract and to hold outstanding academic and professional faculty, including a number of Masters in the Humanities of the Arts. Philadelphia Museum College of Art will only be judged by the excellence of its teaching. Good faculty will attract even better qualified students. All the educational and financial planning of the College is aimed toward this end.

Some former major professional courses of study have been combined into stronger, broader departments. Philadelphia Museum College of Art is an old school, and changes in faculty have been numerous during the last decade as retirements took place, and as more and more full-time, or more days-per-week, positions have been created.

The history of the last ten years can well be summed up by quoting the opening paragraphs of last year's Annual Report: "Growing pains aren't pleasant even when you know they are good for you. What we at the Museum College are suffering from is a severe case of maturation."

A committee appointed by the president of the corporation is studying the possibility of independent corporate status for the Museum College, and this at the same time as the College embarks upon a carefully planned Ten Year Development program. Our next year will be devoted to the creation of the necessary corporate organization, and to strengthening administrative and faculty structure to serve better the present and future students.

It is our purpose and hope that the Philadelphia Museum College of Art, if and when it achieves independent corporate existence, shall not tend to isolate itself from its natural milieu; namely, the society of institutions operating in the field of art education, be it in the training of the artist and artist-designer, or the education of the consumer, perhaps more accurately called the "amateur" in the true sense of the word. It is essential that Philadelphia Museum College of Art should retain close association particularly with the Philadelphia Museum of Art, because of the long period of association which has contributed greatly to the stature and development of both the Museum and the College.

Certainly the chances for the College to do a good job in training designers and teachers will be enhanced by the influence of a great Museum, the storehouse of the great art and artifacts of the past and present. Conversely, the museum will benefit from the relationship with the present living artists, and the contemporary arts which are the life of the College.

Ideally, the College's purpose is not just the training of good artists and artist-designers. Its hope is to train fine designers with a true sense of good taste and proportion, and thus to improve public taste. The mere presence and availability of curatorial connoisseurship can only serve to elevate our tastes and artistic goals.

The Samuel S. Fleisher Art Memorial

The Samuel S. Fleisher Art Memorial continues its progressive art services to all who seek them. There is no charge for tuition. Classes are conducted nightly five evenings each week and on Saturday mornings and Saturday afternoons. There are no academic requirements for admission. The desire to learn to draw and paint or to transform materials into objects of pleasing beauty is the only requirement to enter its classes.

The Memorial has continued to improve its physical facilities and to keep its school equipment in good repair and up to date. Very extensive work has been done this year to correct the damage to the murals in the Sanctuary which occurred last year, due primarily to the bad condition of the roof. We were fortunate in procuring the services of Mr. Spiller of the faculty to undertake this tedious and important job. Mr.

Spiller is making fine progress and his work is restoring the Sanctuary to its original beauty.

Since we were giving the Fleisher Memorial a rebirth by reason of our extensive program of repairs, we have brought up to date the literature regarding our activities. We have rewritten our pamphlet setting forth our objectives. Our aim is to have instruction given under the supervision of a faculty of artist teachers, adequate in number and favorably known to the art world, not only for their achievements as artists, but for their ability as teachers.

We have also had the history of our Sanctuary rewritten to include a description of our Portuguese Chapel. This display of Portuguese art, we understand, is the only one of its kind in North America.

Our student registration, large as it is, continues to show a healthy growth. Total registration for 1962-63 amounted to 3,443 compared to 3,308 the previous year.

The 65th Annual Exhibition opened Monday, June 10th. The display was shown on the three floors of the School building and on the first floor of our building at 721 Catharine Street. Aside from student work usually found in school exhibitions, a very extensive exhibition of ceramics of wide interest was shown.

Regarding the quality of the Memorial services, an unusual recognition was made to three of our students. One of our Saturday morning students won a scholarship to The Pennsylvania Academy of the Fine Arts, and another Saturday morning student won a scholarship to the Philadelphia Museum College of Art. A third Saturday morning student won an award under unique circumstances. This student travelled to New York City and submitted his portfolio of work to the authorities of Cooper Union and was awarded a scholarship there. These awards were made on the basis of the high quality of the work done at the Memorial.

JULIUS ZIEGET, Executive Director

The Women's Committee

At the end of this eightieth year of our formal association with the Philadelphia Museum of Art and the Philadelphia Museum College of Art, I take pleasure in presenting the seventy-third annual written report.

I regret to record the death in July, 1962, of Mrs. Nicholas Biddle, an old and faithful member. We have welcomed three new members to the Committee: Mrs. John C. Russell, Mrs. Robert L. McNeil, Jr. and Mrs. Carl A. G. Riegé. We feel very fortunate to have them with us.

Ten well attended meetings have been held, several at the College, several at the Museum, one at the Fleisher Memorial, and an exceptionally interesting May meeting at the home of Mrs. John Wintersteen. Our thanks to her for her hospitality. We have enjoyed interesting and informative speakers from both the Museum and the College.

In spite of bad winter weather, Museum construction and transportation difficulties we have had an active year.

In the early fall the Committee gave assistance at the opening of the two print shows. In November Mrs. Malcolm Lloyd represented our Committee in arranging for the "American Museum in Britain Evening"—a very popular event at the Museum. In late April Mrs. Henry Hubbard, Mrs. Richard Bond, as hospitality chairmen, and I welcomed some thirty-five ladies, members and officers from the Art Gallery of Toronto. A complete four day tour was set up for them which included several tours of this Museum and a luncheon here. Our thanks go to Henry P. McIlhenny, Mrs. Herbert Morris and Mrs. John Wintersteen, who at our request opened their private collections for them.

Prior to the opening of "A World of Flowers," a special committee headed by Mrs. Benjamin Coates and Mrs. Morris Wenger performed the stupendous job of distributing 3,000 posters throughout Philadelphia, the suburbs, and nearby cities and towns. On the night of the opening most members attended the gala dinner and acted as hostesses throughout the evening.

Constant and steady work goes into our two main projects, the Volunteer Guides, financed by the Committee, and the Guides for the Park Houses.

Last summer Mrs. John C. Russell took over the chairmanship of the Volunteer Guides. Under her capable leadership she has strengthened and enlarged this program. It is impossible for the Committee to convey to Mrs. Russell and her dedicated group of trained women its appreciation and thanks for the time and effort they have contributed (see report on Volunteer Guides).

In the fall Mrs. Albert King resigned as Chairman of the Park Houses Program, after three successful but arduous years. In December Mrs. Orvel Sebring assumed this chairmanship. Under her imaginative and astute management this program is going forward at a rapid pace. Our appreciation goes to her for the amount she has accomplished in this short time (see report on Park Houses).

The last important event undertaken by the Committee and directed with smooth efficiency by Mrs. Joseph Townsend was the benefit for the Park Houses. Following an informal and sociable coffee hour, Mrs. John Wintersteen gave a most amusing and witty talk on "Sports in Art." The proceeds from this successful affair were turned over to the Park Houses Program.

Mrs. Fairfax Leary, who was responsible for procuring the Members' Lounge and setting up the original plans for expanding the membership of the Museum, has been assisted by the Committee which also contributed $250 towards the furnishing of the Members' Lounge. Other gifts included the rug, given by Mrs. Joseph Eastwick, and the table decorations, given by Mrs. Dorothea Collins. Most of the Committee have obtained new members under Mrs. Leary's plan, but special mention should be made of the work of Mrs. Morris Wenger and

Mrs. Joseph Eastwick who have secured an unusual number (see Membership Report).

On "Garden Club Day at the Museum," May 10, 750 ladies from Philadelphia and its environs enjoyed a box luncheon and tours of the painting exhibits and flower arrangements in the galleries. This was managed by Mrs. Fairfax Leary, and special thanks go to Mrs. Robert L. McNeil, Jr., and Mrs. Fitz Eugene Dixon for their work in making this event so successful. Other members of the Committee assisted as hostesses and guides.

The Scrap Book, originated by the Women's Committee over ten years ago, is now ably maintained by Mrs. King Baird who gives endless time to this work so valuable to the Museum—to her our heartfelt thanks for this important work.

We have continued our interest in and contacts with the Museum College of Art. Following one of the meetings we toured the Society Hill Students' Residence. We have had interesting talks by their staff who have kept us up to date on their present activities and future plans. Through the Committee $2,000 has been contributed for scholarships, and we continue to lend our support to the Spring Scholarship Party.

My personal thanks go to the officers and executive committee who have never failed to come up with suggestions when needed; to all the Committee members for their loyal support and their willingness to undertake anything asked of them; and to Mrs. Malcolm Lloyd, Mrs. John Wintersteen, and Mrs. H. Peter Borie for permitting me to consult so frequently with them, and for their always wise and helpful advice on any problem.

MRS. WILLIAM F. MACHOLD
President, Women's Committee

Public Relations

The function of the Department of Public Relations is to create an awareness in the minds of the public of the treasures available in the Museum and of the events occurring in the Museum. Our channels of communication with the public are The Evening Bulletin and Sunday Bulletin, The Philadelphia Inquirer, the Daily News, and suburban newspapers and radio and television stations. I wish to thank our friends of the press, radio and television for the excellent coverage they have given the Museum during the past year.

As has been pointed out in this report, due to construction problems there has been but one major exhibition, A World of Flowers. To publicize this show, in addition to widespread publicity on the part of the press and broadcasting media, there were distributed 3,000 posters throughout the metropolitan area, 25,000 leaflets through City Hall, the Board of Education, libraries and hotels, 100,000 notices through the Fidelity-Philadelphia Trust Company. Ten billboards were allotted to us by the Outdoor Advertising Company, Posters, Inc. granted space for 150 effective posters, and John Wanamaker's gave us a most generous display in each Chestnut Street window.

There was on the average one special event every two weeks during the year and the department participated in some measure in the arrangements of each.

One of the highlights of the year was the award given to the Museum by the S.P.E.A. (Sales Promotion Executives Association) for outstanding promotion of the Museum during 1962.

We have with pleasure worked closely with the Women's Committee, under the leadership of Mrs. William F. Machold, and have helped with the details of many of their activities. In addition, we have played a part in the setting up of the new Membership Committee and in planning its program and its Members' Lounge.

LYSBETH BOYD BORIE
Director of Public Relations

Volunteer Guides

During the year May 1, 1962 to May 1, 1963, the Volunteer Guides of the Philadelphia Museum of Art gave 1,103 guided tours to 18,402 museum visitors, and worked a total of 7,927 hours staffing the information desks, answering telephone inquiries and giving tours of the Museum. They spent much additional time in study courses, doing research, attending lectures and gallery talks, and working on reports. There are now fifty-five active Weekday Guides and three in training, and fifteen active Weekend Guides and five in training, making a total of seventy-eight Volunteer Guides.

In order to increase their knowledge of the collections, four study courses have been held. The Painting study group led by Mrs. Samuel Laver, assisted by Mrs. George T. Cook, met for ten sessions with seventeen guides participating and discussed each school of painting represented in the Museum. The Decorative Arts group led by Mrs. Robert L. McNeil, Jr., assisted by Mrs. T. L. Emory Eysmans, met in six sessions with thirteen guides participating and covered the American and English Period Rooms. A study course in Medieval Art with Mrs. K. Robert Conrad as Chairman and Mrs. Lloyd E. Long assisting, was held for the first time this year, with seventeen guides taking part in this study of the Romanesque and Gothic Rooms. Six Oriental Art lectures were given by Mrs. Adele Rickett with thirty guides attending.

In addition to setting up the study courses, Mrs. Philip Mechem, assisted by Mrs. Brooke Roberts, has supervised and completed the training of nine new guides this year, to replace those who have moved away or have been lost to us through illness or for other unavoidable reasons. Mrs. K. Robert Conrad has done a thorough and painstaking job of indexing material in back issues of the Museum Bulletin for use of the guides. Mrs. George T. Cook has given additional time as a volunteer research assistant.

The Weekend Guides have been ably led this year by Miss Susan Goldner as Chairman. Since she no longer lives in Philadelphia, Miss Serena Noznesky has been appointed Chairman of that group for the coming year. Mrs. Russell T. Blackwood, Jr., has served most effectively as liaison with the weekend group. After three years of excellent work in that office she has asked to be relieved, and Mrs. Edward Neithammer of the Weekend Guides will represent the weekend group on the Administrative Committee.

Helping the Weekend Guides at the information desks and directing visitors through the Museum, sixteen Museum Aides have worked a total of 301 hours. This group of Senior Girl Scouts was carefully selected from ninety applicants, and organized and trained by Mrs. John A. Stees with the assistance of Mrs. Leon Jonas. The Aides duties terminate with the close of the school year, and will begin again in the fall.

Mrs. Lloyd Wells has had charge of planning meetings and events for the guides and has arranged a most interesting series of events. The guides have enjoyed a visit to the Henry F. duPont Winterthur Museum, a gallery talk in the Rodin Museum by Joseph Greenberg, a behind-the-scenes tour of the Fashion Wing with Mrs. Russell Richardson, a tea at the home of Henry P. McIlhenny, a Christmas sherry party at the Museum given by Mrs. William F. Machold and Mrs. Henry H. Hubbard, a tea given by Mrs. W. Logan MacCoy at her home in Haverford, a gallery talk on the Geesey Collection by Titus Geesey, and a spring tea at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. Sturgis Ingersoll.

On the latter occasion awards of one year's membership in the Museum were made to Mrs. Orhan Alisbah and Mrs. John A. Stees of the Weekday Guides, and to Miss Eleanor Stuck of the Weekend Guides, for having worked the greatest number of hours during the past year.

Mrs. Leo DuBois with the assistance of Mrs. William H. Hulick III, has ably handled the monthly scheduling of guides. Mrs. Albert Nalle has acted as Treasurer, and handled our funds and financial records most efficiently. Mrs. Harry L. Curtis has been in charge of foreign language tours and the recruiting of guides with language facility. She has been assisted by Mrs. Orhan Alisbah. With the able help of Mrs. Robert Diskant, much work has been done to provide translations of the basic tour into French, German, Spanish, Italian and Russian for the use of foreign visitors. This work is nearing completion when the translations can be put into their final form.

Our able Vice Chairman, Mrs. William Bradley III, has supervised the "Officers of the Day," served as acting Chairman during the Chairman's absence, and helped in many ways to keep our guide organization running smoothly.

The Officers in charge of Education, Scheduling, Events, Aides, Foreign Language Tours, and the Weekend Guides' Representative, together with the Chairman, Vice Chairman, Secretary and Treasurer, have formed an administrative Committee of Volunteer Guides which has met monthly to plan, discuss and resolve problems related to guiding in the Museum.

Two business meetings of all guides were held during the year, with Henri Marceau, Director, Mrs. William F. Machold, Chairman of the Women's Committee, Paul Ingersoll of the Membership Committee, Frank Graham, Chief of the Division of Education, as guest speakers.

Through the generosity of one of the guides, floor plans of the Museum were printed for distribution at the information desks. These have been most helpful to museum visitors.

In order to facilitate study by the guides, the art books formerly used only in the Volunteer Office have formed the nucleus of a small circulating library from which the guides may borrow books for a week at a time. For gifts of books to this library, we are grateful to Mrs. Albert Nalle, Mrs. Benjamin Coates, Mrs. William F. Machold, and Miss Caroline Drayton. Additional volumes have been purchased with funds contributed anonymously by one of the guides and earmarked for guide education.

Through the generosity of the Women's Committee, funds have been provided for the printing of an illustrated folder describing the tours given by the Volunteer Guides. Work on this much-needed piece of literature is now underway.

All of those active in the guiding service are most grateful to the Museum for the services of our full time Secretary, Miss Marie H. Sturges, who has so conscientiously, pleasantly and efficiently coordinated our day-to-day activities, handled our correspondence, and kept us all happy in our work. Also, we express our appreciation to the Women's Committee for their allocation of funds to cover other operating expenses, and particularly to the Chairman, Mrs. William F. Machold for her helpful suggestions and generous support.

We are grateful to Mr. Marceau and his entire staff for their interest and support, particularly to Mrs. Thomas F. Kane, Mrs. Henry Peter Borie and Frank Graham.

We thank the Curators for their invaluable guidance and assistance, particularly Miss Jean Gordon Lee and David T. DuBon in connection with the setting up of the new study courses, and also Carl Zigrosser, Henry Clifford and Henry G. Gardiner for their generous cooperation in giving gallery talks to the guides on exhibitions and collections.

The guides themselves are to be congratulated on the conscientious performance of their duties. As a group we look forward hopefully to even greater usefulness in the coming year.

MRS. JOHN CURTIN RUSSELL, Chairman

Park Houses Committee

This report covers only five months of the Park Houses Committee, as I assumed the active Chairmanship on December 11, 1962. We have seventeen active guides and two spares. Four new guides were trained during the cold winter months. Lectures by outside authorities, as well as by our more experienced guides, gave the necessary background needed for confidence and knowledge.

Publicity is a never-ending task and we have been hard at it. Hundreds of letters have been mailed with our literature to a selected group of people and publications; answers and inquiries have been gratifying. In May, The Philadelphia Inquirer published a two-page account by Frank Weir of the Park Houses, with pictures. This was part of their series, "Our Historic Shrines." A guide book to be published shortly, is being prepared by the Girard Trust Company in Philadelphia. The Park Houses will have several pages of description and history, as well as pictures. The usual contacts with various City offices have been maintained.

It should be noted that prior to the time of this report, the November issue of Antiques magazine was published, dealing entirely with the Fairmount Park Houses. It contained articles by Louis C. Madeira and four of the Park House Guides. It is felt that this effort was an outstanding contribution towards informing the public of the fine program sponsored by the Women's Committee of the Philadelphia Museum of Art.

One of our major efforts in May was the eleven bus loads of members of The Garden Club of America. As these women come from all over the country, we feel that this undertaking will bring very tangible results to our Park Houses program. The houses and guides apparently made a great impression on the visitors, and many happy comments were heard.

A very substantial sum was raised by the Women's Committee under the able chairmanship of Mrs. Joseph B. Townsend, and Mrs. John Wintersteen gave a delightfully witty talk with slides on "Sports in Art."

I wish to thank Mrs. Klaus Naudé for all her help in the changeover for both Mrs. Charles Meigs, in the office, and myself. Mrs. Meigs is ever helpful in her duties as Executive Assistant. Mrs. William F. Machold, Chairman of the Women's Committee, has given constant support. The advisors to the Park Houses Committee have been so thoughtful and encouraging that they have made my work easy. Henri Marceau, Mrs. Wintersteen, Mrs. Lloyd, and Philip Price have my grateful thanks for all they have done for me.

I look forward to the remainder of the year with eagerness.
